ROMANA BANK BROKE

Italian Financier Caught at Fort Washington.

DEPOSITORS SEEK THEIR CASH

Joseph Bersani Decided to Aid His Countrymen Who Were in Need, and Was Without Funds to Make Good When Called Upon by Those Who Had Trusted Him.

Joseph Bersani, an Italian banker, was arrested yesterday afternoon at Fort Washington by Detectives Weedon and Burlingame, of the Central Office, on a charge of grand larceny. He is locked up at the First Police station.

It was with visions of owning rows of six-story tenements, each crowded with occupants, that Vittorio Vittori, and a dozen or more of his fellow-Italians deposited their savings in the "Banca Romana."

It was several months ago that the visions first appeared, and they were brought into being by one Joseph Bersani, a shrewd son of Italy, who established a grocery store at 328 Third street southwest. Perceiving how his fellow-countrymen squandered their money, he began to think over the matter. A few days later the sign, "Banca Romana," appeared over his doorway. Shortly after the sign appeared, so also did several depositors.

Among the ones who wished to have a bank account, and eventually he a magnate, was Vittorio Vittori. He deposited $100.

Calls Upon His Banker.
Vittori had occasion to use some of his money a couple of days ago, and called upon his banker. He was informed that he possessed no funds, and when he called again, found the bank closed and the banker gone. He then notified the police. Bersani's arrest followed.

After the banker was arrested at Fort Washington, he was brought back to this city in the police launch, Major Sylvester. On the way he was well soaked by waves from some larger river boats.

The banker explained to the detectives that he was not trying to experiment in frenzied finance, but had merely loaned the money deposited by Vittori and his friends to assist some of his countrymen who were in hard luck. When these men were able they would pay him, he said, and then he would pay the depositors in his bank.

TRIBUTE TO DEAD MEMBERS.

Oldest Inhabitants Honor Memory of Libbey and Church.

The Oldest Inhabitants' Association of the District of Columbia yesterday paid tribute to the memory of two of its members who died within a few hours of each other Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey and Charles B. Church. The funeral services for each were held yesterday afternoon, and were attended by members of the association.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place at the family home, 363 P street northwest, and the services were conducted by the Rev. Thomas O. Crouse. The active pallbearers were William King, Charles Edmondson, John Lynch, and Mr. J. Adler. Interment was in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The funeral of Charles B. Church took place yesterday afternoon from Westminster Presbyterian Church. Rev. T. E. Davis, pastor of the church, and Rev. Dr. Bittinger, a lifelong friend of the deceased, conducted the services and paid tribute to the memory of Mr. Church. Interment was in Congressional Cemetery. The pallbearers were Ambrose H. Stephenson, John S. Stephenson, Joseph G. Stephenson, William Wimsatt, Frederick J. White, and D. Harrison Johnson.

MINORITY MEMBER OBJECTS.

Van Beyer Asks Receiver for a Washington Realty Company.

Rudolph C. Van Beyer yesterday filed a suit for an accounting and for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the affairs of the Greater Washington Realty Company, naming as defendants Thomas H. C. Vance and his son, Frank A. Vance.

In the petition filed, Mr. Van Beyer says that on September 23 last he was requested by Mr. Vance, sr., to join in an enterprise for the purchase and sale of real estate, which enterprise, it was claimed, was earning, and would continue to earn, large profits. Van Beyer says that he accepted these statements, he gave up a remunerative position in New York and accepted the vice presidency of the company.

Mr. Van Beyer claims that while the authorized capital of the company is $100,000, only nine shares of $100 each have been issued, three to him and three each to Mr. Vance and his son, and a cash balance of $106. He claims that as a matter of fact, the company has assets which could be converted into $400 cash.

A resolution was recently passed, he says, at a meeting at which he and the two Vances were present, requiring him to pay into the treasury the sum of $325, which he declined to do unless credited with $240 which he says he had already paid into the treasury. Upon his refusal to pay the sum assessed, he says he was requested to deliver up his shares of stock and sever his relations with the company. He says he has been furnished with only incomplete statements of the company's affairs, and this shows that he has been deceived.

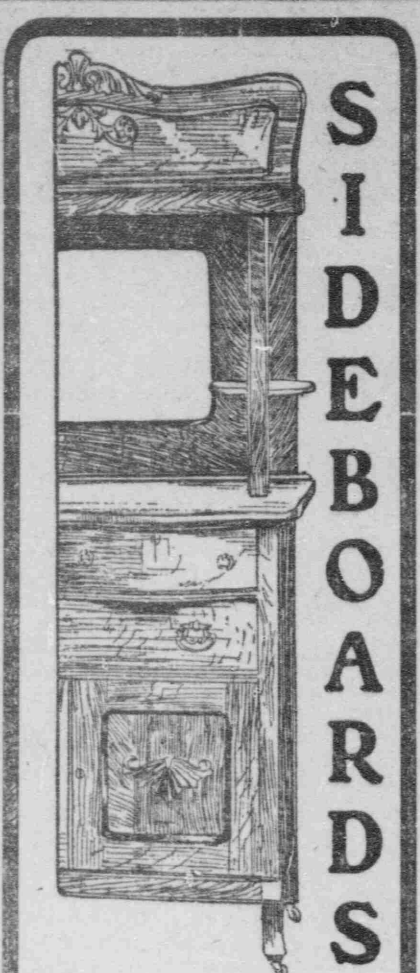

He asks the court to compel an accounting and the appointment of a receiver.

Heir from Mr. Wilson.
Jesse L. Wilson, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, has written to the Commissioners, calling attention to the fact that the available funds for the maintenance of the Government Hospital for the Insane will be exhausted at the close of April, and asking that certain bills incurred by the institution be paid. The Commissioners will inform Mr. Wilson that vouchers for the payment of bills mentioned have been transmitted by the District auditor, and that hereafter, all such vouchers will be sent to the Treasury Department for the required action.

Drop Trackage Question.
No further steps are likely to be taken by the Commissioners in the navy yard trackage question. Although the Commissioners endeavored to have the railroad tracks in the southeastern section of the city retained, and were acting in response to an appeal from the Navy Department, the matter will be dropped. It has been pointed out by the Senate District Committee that if the navy yard railroad tracks are wiped out, the navy yard will be made inaccessible by rail on account of the removal of the only tracks leading to it.

SCHOOL SHOPS CONDEMNED

Chief Belt Objects to Carpenter Work in Basements.

Reports on Result of Inspections of Buildings Throughout the District.

Immediate abandonment of the old High Street and Miner schools has been recommended to the Commissioners by Chief Belt, of the fire department, in a report made yesterday as a result of recent inspections.

"The use of the old High Street and Miner schools should be discontinued at once," the chief says in the report. "The High Street school building is an extremely dangerous one, and should not be used for school purposes until the basement has been made fireproof."

"During the course of my inspections, I have found that in certain of the schools carpenter shops are maintained in the basement, the most dangerous points from a fire standpoint, and it is of the utmost importance that they should be kept clear of inflammable material of any kind. I recommend, therefore, that the maintenance of carpenter shops in basements of school buildings be discontinued, and that such shops be maintained in buildings especially constructed for that purpose, and separate from school buildings proper."

"Inspections were made of the Hyde, Normal School No. 2, Fillmore, Jackson, Corcoran, Weightman, Toner, Grant, Curtis, Addison, Old High Street, Western High, Briggs, Dennison, Montgomery, and Miner School buildings. Four of these buildings, the Jackson, Old High Street, and Dennison, are provided with wooden stairways. It has been recommended that the wooden stairways in the Jackson and Dennison schools be torn out and replaced by iron or fireproof stairs."

"It is recommended that in all cooking schools, the present coal and wood ranges be replaced by gas ranges."

"All heating plants for schools should be located on the outside of school buildings proper."

"I invite special attention to my report on the Hyde School building. It was found that the upper portion of the heating plant had fallen in, leaving an opening in the ceiling, and a gas leak was detected. It is recommended that no fires be built in this plant until some improvements are made."

Up to this date the total number of school buildings inspected by Chief Belt is ninety-eight.

TELLS OF EARLY METHODISM

Believes the Worshipers of Old-fashioned Members of the Church Would Wonder at Some Things if They Were Permitted to See Them. Convention of Epworth League.

Departmental conferences, participated in by delegates from every branch of the Washington District Epworth League, occupied most of the second night's session of the eighteenth annual convention of the local Epworth League, now in progress at the Wesley Chapel, Fifth and F streets northwest.

Delegates from each of the branches of the league in this city participated in the conferences presided over by Rev. J. W. R. Sumwalt. These conferences brought out the fact that the Epworth League made more progress during the last year than at any time in its history. Suggestions were advanced by each representative showing the organization to be in a healthy and prosperous condition.

The Churches Represented.
The churches represented are the Metropolitan, Waugh, McKendree, Hamilton, Gorsuch, Petworth, Wilson Memorial, Anacostia, Douglas, Foundry, Dumbarton, Tennanttown, Brightwood, Brookland, North Capitol, Grace, Wesley Chapel, Calvary, Ryland, Trinity, and Hyattsville.

Surrounding the platform were clusters of American Beauty roses and many-hued spring blossoms.

Rev. W. F. Sheridan, D. D., pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Church, of Baltimore, was introduced as the principal speaker. He responded with a lengthy talk on "The Methodists of yesterday and to-morrow," and gave a history of the founder of Methodism, John Wesley.

The "Merry Widow" Hats.

After describing the rapid growth of methodism and foretelling a prosperous future, he said:

"The early Methodists were earnest in their convictions, and held strongly to the tenets, but what would they say if they saw so many 'Merry Widow' hats in our churches as in the case to-day? I don't mean to be humorous, but must confess their worship was more exemplary than that of later times."

Special music was sung by the Hamilton League choir, under the direction of Miss Ida F. O'Neil.

This evening the final session of the convention will be held. It will consist of consideration of reports of officers, committees, and chapters, and the election and installation of officers.
